SYNOPSIS

Teenager Klara and her friends are eagerly awaiting Easter and the wild water fight that celebrates the arrival of spring. However, for Klara, the festive holiday marks the anniversary of a painful experience. Tormented by shame, she begins to suffer from nightmares and develops a strange fear of water. With the help of her new friend Diana, Klara embarks on a journey to confront and heal her repressed trauma. Wet Monday is a magical tale about teenage-hood and the healing power of empathy, set against the colorful backdrop of Polish Easter traditions.

DIRECTOR'S BIOGRAPHY

Polish director and screenwriter, Justyna Mytnik graduated in directing from the National Film Television and Theater School in Łódź and completed her master's degree in art history and English literature at the University of Edinburgh. She received a scholarship from the Minister of Education for outstanding achievements.

Her short films have been screened at prestigious international film festivals, including Clermont-Ferrand Festival. Her documentary "How to Become Pope?" received the Best Documentary Award at the Warsaw Film Festival, and "Apocalypse" was awarded at FEST, Roja, Cinemaiubit, etc. "Wet Monday" is her full-length feature debut.
